Section 2: Description of Information Programs

Describe programs that inform students and employees about:

(a) Campus safety and security

Campus safety and security is an integral function of the college safety committee. This committee is charged with the duty maintaining the college safety manual, implementing the necessary training for faculty, staff and students and conducting appropriate surveys to gain additional input and evaluate the effectiveness of safety and security programs. Information is published and disseminated via campus wide e-mail, flyers, posters, brochures and newsletters. Policies and procedures are also communicated to faculty and staff through regular meetings and orientation sessions. Campus security received the highest gain on the student satisfaction survey for the past year.

(b) How to report a crime:

The Chief Business Affairs Officer is charged with the responsibility of maintaining the campus crime log. Crimes may be reported to any campus security personnel or directly to the Chief Business Affairs Officer . All documentation and incident reports will flow immediately to the Chief Business Affairs Officer's office for proper recording and handling.

(c) How to prevent crimes:

Information, precaution and visible security measures are major deterrents to campus crime. All three components are communicated and employed on the Madisonville Community College campuses. In addition to the information procedures cited above, security officers have been employed during regular semesters if and when concerns arise. Additional lighting has been installed as a result of the student and staff survey analysis. Again, perceived by the students to be the greatest campus improvement.
